1/15/18	1:00 PM	Welcome 2018 with custom-designed wearable art . Learn about our one-of-a-kind outerwear creations inspired by the artistry of Native Americans.
1/17/18	2:00 PM	Beacon Blankets have a long history of illustrating the artistry of Native Americans who gave their designs to the Beacon Blanket Company in exchange for them producing blankets for their reservations. The incredible patterns and colors in the vintage Beacon Blankets captivated artisan DeeAnn Carpenter. She collects and creates beautiful wearable masterpieces from them. Find out more about the history of Beacon Blankets at Adore Designs.

1/21/18	1:30pm	Artisan DeeAnn Carpenter established her custom clothing brand with the notion of transforming Native American designed vintage Beacon Blankets—circa 1920-1960—into unique, museum-quality outerwear. With a distinctive cutting technique, DeeAnn expertly captures and preserves the color schemes, patterns, and pictorial designs from the blankets and turns them into personalized, high quality jackets, coats, and capelettes that stand out from any other apparel on the market. Read more about DeeAnn and her passion for sewing.

1/29/18	11:15 AM	It is a great pleasure working with my client Frank, whom has entrusted me to create this beautiful colorful coat for him. Here are a few pictures of his coat to show my work. Frank will be sending me pictures of him in his coat. He has been a collector of these Beacon Blankets for many years, which were made 1920 to 1950. One day I hope to personally see his collection! He drove all the way from Arlington Virginia last summer to bring me his blanket and get measured up. I even made him a muslin template pattern and mailed it to him to make sure the cutting size would fit. Thank you Frank for this opportunity to create a work of art!
